

2019, dma si
typeface, poster,
website, animation

ai, ae, id
html, css, js

website, home page

2019, dma si
typeface, poster,
website, animation

ai, ae, id
html, css, js

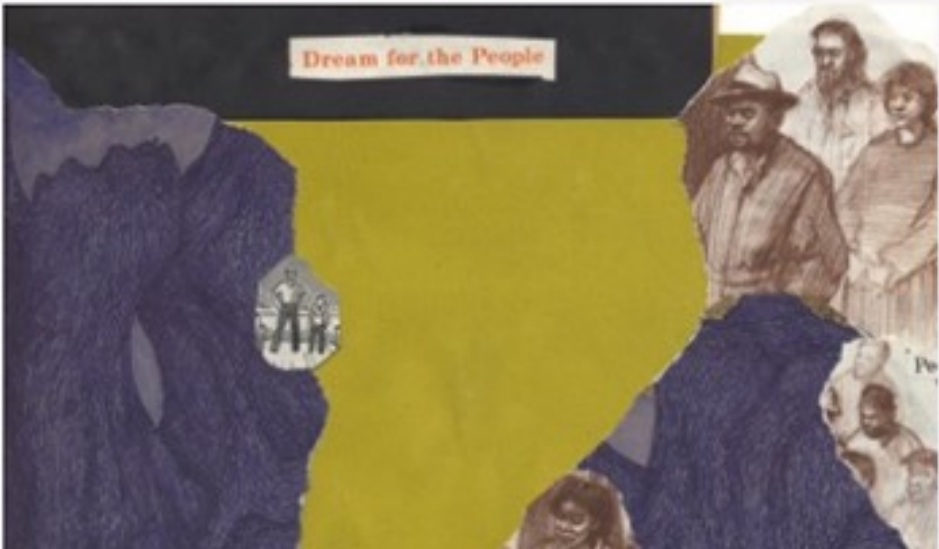

UCLA DESIGN MEDIA ARTS
SUMMER INSTITUTE 2019

JULY 7 - JULY 19, 2019
ENROLL NOW

CURRICULUM

During the two-week program, students explore a variety of media examining different practices and design methods for print, web, game and video. Broadly addressing a common theme, all four classes contribute to the creation of an integrated, multi-media exhibition at the end of the residency. This year's theme will be Next Nature. Each class is taught by one instructor and one program assistant; class size is limited to a maximum of 20 students.

PRINT

Students explore graphic design as image-making coupled with basic typography through a series of fun and fast-paced assignments and exercises. All projects encapsulate a yearly theme while addressing form, composition, hierarchy, and creativity. Students develop a design process and critical visual vocabulary through experimentation and group critiques.

website, curriculum