2019, dma si typeface, poster, website, animation

ai, ae, id html, css, js

UCLA DESIGN MEDIA ARTS SUMMER INSTITUTE 2019 JULY 7 - JULY 19, 2019

ENROLL NOW X

CURRICULUM

During the two-week program, students explore a variety of media examining different practices and design methods for print, web, game and video. Broadly addressing a common theme, all four classes contribute to the creation of an integrated, multi-media exhibition at the end of the residency. This year's theme will be Next Nature. Each class is taught by one instructor and one program assistant; class size is limited to a maximum of 20 students.

PRINT

Students explore graphic design as image-making coupled with basic typography through a series of fun and fast-paced assignments and exercises. All projects encapsulate a yearly theme while addressing form, composition, hierarchy, and creativity. Students develop a design process and critical visual vocabulary through experimentation and group critiques.

2019, dma si typeface, poster, website, animation

ai, ae, id html, css, js

* RESIDENCE HALLS

Due to the rigorous and intense nature of the program, the residential plan, which includes a meal plan, is mandatory for all participants. For a virtual tour of the UCLA residential halls, click here.

Participants will be housed in one of the UCLA residence halls, comfortably furnished and conveniently located within easy walking distance of classrooms, libraries, and recreational facilities. Since the provision of housing is subject to availability, UCLA Summer Sessions cannot guarantee an assignment to a specific residential hall or room type. Details of the residential hall assignment will be provided prior to the check-in date.

Participants will have breakfast and dinner each day in the UCLA dining halls, recognized nationally for their excellent cuisine. For lunch, which is not included in the residential plan, participants may consider any of the UCLA eating establishments on campus. Lunches usually range from $5 - $15.

♠ EVENING / WEEKEND ACTIVITIES

Participants may attend optional evening or weekend activities organized by the Office of Residential Life at no additional cost.

◆ FACULTY

The DMA Summer Institute curriculum is based on materials covered in the department's undergraduate curriculum. Instructors for the DMA Summer Institute are graduate students and alumni of the department's prestigious MFA Program. Please visit UCLA Department of Design Media Arts for more information about our undergraduate and graduate programs.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW→ CURRICULUM→ HOUSING + FEES→ SCHOLARSHIPS + CONTACT→

2018 GALLERY X